On Grain, $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1 ct. per bushel.

On Petroleum, $\frac{1}{3}$ of (5%) five per cent.

HINTS ON STOWAGE.

Vessels loading heavy cargoes will be required to carry about ($\frac{1}{3}$) one third of the dead weight in the between decks or on the beams. If the lower deck is not laid, then spruce or pine plank (3x9) three by nine inches must be laid on the beams, to secure the stability of the vessel, and also to relieve the heavy pressure of the cargo from the bottom of the vessel.

Slate must be raised from (14 to 18) fourteen to eighteen inches on the floor by good dunnage with furring strips between the tiers instead of laths. This method will raise the tiers and will help to make the vessel easier at sea in heavy weather. Cargoes of coal should be raised about the same height as slate from the floor, and must be provided with suitable shifting plank in the lower hold (3 or 4) three or four feet deep, and from the beams or between decks to the upper deck, fitted tight enough to prevent the small coal from running through from side to side on top.

No vessel carrying coal coastwise should omit this important precaution whether single or double decked.

Cargoes of guano and phosphates should be stowed as recommended above, as to the disposition of dead weight and in vessels with open beams on suitable plank laid for the purpose of dividing the weight.

General cargoes should be dunnaged from (6 to 12) six to twelve inches on the floor and from (9 to 15) nine to fifteen inches in the bilge, according to the model of the vessel; and from (2 to 4) two to four inches from the bilge to lower deck beams, and about one inch on the sides in the between decks or above the beams if the between decks are not laid. The dunnage can be lowered at a suitable distance abaft the pump well and forward of the foremast in the bilges, owing to the fineness of the model at these points.

Heavy cargoes should not be stowed over loose grain, even if properly dunnaged.

Heavy cargoes should not be carried too far forward on account of causing the vessel to pitch heavy at sea. Oil Cake in sacks should not be stowed over loose grain even if properly dunnaged, unless the condition of both is perfect and dry.

No liquid cargo should be stored over dry cargo, even in between decks, unless they are properly caulked and payed with pitch including also the hatches for the immediate occasion.

Vessels having carried Petroleum or Sugar and Molasses, should be thoroughly cleansed, scraped and purified with powdered lime before taking in grain.

All infected dunnage also should be removed from the hold.

Oil Cake in sacks being a very delicate cargo, should be well protected by dunnage from the sides and bilges as well as from the floor and masts. Cargoes of Lumber and especially long lumber on deck, should never be allowed to bear any unequal strain on the ends, but the weight should be equally borne along the entire length. This is an important consideration even in a new vessel. The dunnage to be required cannot be fixed to any degree of certainty; but should be raised or lowered according to the form of the bottom of the vessel.

Vessels loading grain in Bags or Bulk on voyages from Ports of the United States to Ports in Europe, will be required to conform to the following rules adopted by the Association of Marine Underwriters at meeting of August 16, 1881, and as amended October 24, 1881, to enable the Surveyor to issue the proper Certificate:

1. The pump-well must be sufficiently large to admit of the passage of a man to the bottom of the hold, and room to work conveniently when there, say not less than four feet fore and aft, and five feet athwartships (reference, however, must be had to the size of the keelson and assistant keelsons), and must be grain tight and ceiled if required.

2. Access to the pump-well must be had either by a man-hole through the upper deck, or by a clear passage-way between decks from the after hatch. In no case must it be from the main hatch.

GRAIN OR FLOUR IN BAGS.

3. Vessels being loaded with grain in bags should be dunnaged twelve (12) inches on the floor, fifteen (15) inches on the bilges; and two (2) inches on the sides. If the vessel is very flat or sharp, the dunnage may be increased or diminished at the discretion of the surveyor.

In between decks should be dunnaged two (2) inches from the sides.

4. The dunnage in the hold must be entirely covered with sails, or approved mats, so as to prevent any of the loose grain from running down on to the floor of the vessel and thence to the pump-well. If sails are used they must be of good quality and free from holes.

5. Two-inch shifting planks, or equivalent) extending from the beams four feet downward when required, and between decks, from deck to deck, must be properly secured on each side of the stanchions in the hold, and between decks, to prevent the cargo from shifting, and care must be taken that the stanchions are well fastened at top and bottom, and properly shored.

6. Care must be taken that the bags are properly stowed in the ground tier, as well as those that are next to the sides of the vessel, are in perfect order, and that the tiers are laid close and well filled. When stowed on bulk or loose grain, must have boards under them laid and so placed that each bottom bag shall be supported by sufficient boards with bearing boards to prevent the bags from settling into the bulk grain.

GRAIN IN BULK, AND IN BULK AND BAGS.

7. Bulk or loose grain must be taken in bins prepared for that purpose. Materials for bins must be of well seasoned stock; unseasoned lumber must not be used where it will come in contact with the grain.

8. Rules 1st and 2d likewise apply to vessels being loaded with grain in bulk.

9. The floor of the bin must be laid on sleepers of scantling $2\frac{1}{2}$ x 4 inches in size, 16 inches apart from centre to centre, supported by studs of corresponding size, also 16 inches from centre to centre.

It must be raised twelve inches over the floor of the vessel—in the bilge fifteen inches, and in vessels that are very flat or sharp, may be increased or diminished at the discretion of the surveyor.

In no case should the floor of the bin be laid on loose dunnage.

The floor is considered as extending from the keelson to the turn of the bilge. It must be laid with two thicknesses of one inch boards so that they will break joints at the edges and ends, and care must be taken that it be perfectly tight. Vessels under 300 tons register may be permitted to have a single floor laid with one inch boards. Edges lapped one inch.

10. The studs for the forward and after bulkheads for vessels not exceeding 14 feet depth of hold must be equal to 4 by 6 inches in size ; for vessels of a greater depth than 14 feet, they must be equal to 4 by 8 inches. They must be set 20 inches apart from centre to centre, firmly secured at the top and bottom, and properly braced and cleated on the ceiling, and sheathed with one inch boards made grain tight and double cleated at the sides.

11. All air strakes and open seams must be closed and the sides of the vessel above the turn of the bilge must be ceiled after the manner of clapboarding reversed, and not furred where it can be avoided. When furring is used the bilge ceiling must be grain tight at the sides. All lodging and bosom knees not fitted tight to deck must be cleated around the face of the knee, and made grain tight.

12. Shifting planks two inches thick, (in vessels under 300 tons register one inch boards with edges lapped one inch, must extend from the keelson to the deck on each side of the stanchions, fitted tight under and between the beams and carlines, and care must be taken that the stanchions are well secured at both ends, and not more than seven feet apart. Exceptions may be made in cases where permanent shifting planks are satisfactorily fitted.

13. Masts and water tanks, either of wood or iron, must be properly cased to prevent damage from leakage ; and mast coats must be strong and tight.

14. Vessels carrying a full cargo in bulk are required to have, in addition to the forward and after end bulk heads, two grain tight trimming bulk heads, (thus making a division of three compartments), forward one to extend from the upper deck to the bottom of the vessel. The after one may extend only to lower deck or beams, and so placed that in loading the middle compartment will be entirely filled and the end ones left to trim the vessel. If the end compartments are not entirely filled, care must be taken that the cargo be properly secured to prevent shifting. The studs for the trimming bulk heads to be not less than 3x6 inches and set 22 inches from the centres, and all studs to be firmly secured at top and bottom and properly braced and cleated and sheathed with one inch boards.

15. Vessels with single decks and deck and beams carrying bulks and bags, should not carry the bulk higher than to admit of the stowage of one quarter of the cargo, or not less than 5 heights of bags over it (except the vessels be under 500 tons register when the height may be regulated by the surveyor).

Vessels sail or steam with two or more decks carrying general cargo or grain bags between deck and bulk grain in the hold as high as the lower deck (exceeding one half the nett registered tonnage), will be required to have properly constructed and sufficient feeders (and if amidships to have centre shifting boards), with openings in the decks to allow the grain in the feeders to run into the hold and side openings to be made when required. When the hold is not filled with bulk, sufficient space must be left to stow one quarter of the cargo or not less than 5 heights of bags or other suitable cargo to properly secure it over boards as provided in section 6.

No double deck vessel is permitted to carry bulk grain (oats excepted) in between decks except as herein provided.

16. The grain must be well trimmed up between the beams, and the space between the beams completely filled.

The draft of water, or free board, to be regulated by a scale approved by the loading committee.

Free-board shall be measured from top of deck at the side of the vessel to the waters's edge at lowest point of sheer.

IRON SAILING VESSELS.

17. The foregoing rules are also to apply to Iron vessels, excepting that in cases where the frames and inside of plating are in such condition as to warrant it, the side ceiling may be dispensed with : a floor ceiling to be laid if required by the surveyor and to load as provided in section 15.

IRON STEAMSHIPS.

1. All steamers with water ballast tanks, will not be required to sheath over the same, if the flooring is in good condition and grain tight, and water courses in bilges properly covered.

2. Steamers without water ballast tanks, and the floors planked with $2\frac{1}{2}$ or 3 inch planks, the same being sound, dry and grain tight, and not less than 15 inches above cementing, will not be required to sheath over the same.

3. Steamers with a continuous hold forward will require a close bulkhead in the same, and also aft if deemed necessary by the surveyor.

4. Shifting boards to be the same as required for sailing vessels, and care to be taken that they are well shored, especially abreast of the large hatches.

5. No bulk grain to be carried in between decks, or (where a ship has more than two decks) between the two upper decks, unless in properly constructed feeders sufficient to feed the cargo in the hold ; feeders amidships to have centre shifting boards.

6. Steamers with 2 or more decks will be required to load as required in section 15.

7. Steamers with one deck or one deck and beams, may carry bulk to such a height as will permit the stowage of one quarter of the cargo, not less than five heights of bags, over boards as provided in section 6. other cargo may be substituted to secure the bulk.

8. Section 17 for sailing vessels, is also applicable to steamers.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

Owners and Masters of vessels intending to load grain, are particularly requested to give early notice to the Surveyors at this office, when ready for ceiling, and also when ready to receive grain.

Any deviation required under peculiar circumstances, must receive the approval of the Loading Committee or Board of Surveyors at port of loading.

Vessels loaded in conformity to the foregoing rules, may have a certificate to that effect from the Surveyor appointed by The Association of Marine Underwriters, and the respective Insurance Companies composing said Association, will be duly notified thereof.
